Doerr named member-in-charge of tax at BSW

St. Louis Business Journal - by Evan Binns

Martin Doerr has been named member-in-charge of tax services at Brown Smith Wallace, the area's sixth largest accounting firm, with 195 employees.

Doerr had been president of the accounting, tax and advisory services practice at CBIZ for three years before joining Brown Smith Wallace.

Doerr, 54, will oversee expansion of the firm's tax practice, which he hopes to grow to $10 million by the end of fiscal 2010. Currently, the practice posts an estimated $7 million in revenue.

Harvey Wallace, managing member of Brown Smith Wallace, said Doerr's addition was a unanimous decision to strengthen the firm's accounting, auditing and financial advisory services.

"We're telling our clients that have a strong balance sheet that there is no better time to go out and get great talent and pursue other strategic opportunities," Wallace said. He said Doerr's background with national firms, middle market companies, and retailers would drive growth for the practice.
